What the Well-dressed Consumer Will Wear

Your wardrobe may not include a mountain-climber's costume or deep-sea-diver's rig. But they illustrate a simple, startling fact.

While the cost of living has been climbing up, the cost of electric service has been dropping down! That's true no matter what year you set as "sea level"—5, 10 or 15 years ago.

Actually, in the last 15 years, the cost of electricity has come down so far that the average American family gets about twice as much for its money today as it did then. Perhaps you haven't noticed the reduction in your own bills because you've been adding appliances and using more electricity. But the saving is there.

In the light of other wartime costs and taxes, electricity has become just about the biggest bargain in your budget! The reasons are as many as the men and women who work for your local electric company—under careful business management—keeping service good, price low.
