NO BULGING BICEPS MAR HER LITHE BEAUTY

Lithe, lovely Antoinette Concello, star of the world-famous Flying Concellos, is what might be termed an aerial custom job; that is, she was built to order for flying and somersaulting in the high riggings of the big top.

Antoinette, who is Tony to the hundreds of people with the big Russell Bros. Pan-Pacific railroad circus, coming to Ontario, Oregon, Sunday, July 29, has broad shoulders and strong arms, although no bulging biceps mar their beauty. From her perfect torso she tapers to her toes, and there is not an ounce of surplus flesh on her frame. She is like an arrow, so ready for flight is this charming, daring and graceful rick and it is no wonder aerial stars the world over concede she is the greatest girl flier of them all.

The two Flying Concello troupes with the Russell Bros. Pan-Pacific show are featured in the gigantic performances which commence at 3 and 8 p. m., with the doors opening at 2 and 7.

Most Visible Color
Despite the fact that red is the traditional symbol of danger and the widely held impression that red is the most conspicuous of colors, color researchers report that yellow is the most conspicuous and visible of hues. Next in order is a brilliant yellow-green. Orange ranks third and red is in fourth place. In the dim light in many industrial plants, yellow and green, which are regions of highest visibility in the spectrum, are the two colors which hold their brightness best, with red fading out and resembling black—a phenomenon long recognized by science.

4-8-8-4

Railroaders identify various types of locomotives by the number and arrangement of wheels from front to rear. The Union Pacific locomotive pictured above is known as a "4-8-8-4" . . . two pairs of small wheels in front, then four pairs of driving wheels followed by a similar unit, and two pairs of smaller wheels in the rear—not including the tender.

The "4-8-8-4" type is Union Pacific's largest and heaviest steam locomotive; informally christened "Big Boy" by the men who built it. This giant of the rails is 132 feet in length and weighs approximately 600 tons. Water capacity is 25,000 gallons; fuel 28 tons. A fleet of 25 "Big Boys" is now in Union Pacific service. Built primarily to haul heavy freight loads on western mountain grades, they have proved invaluable in transporting tremendous quantities of war materials over the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the West Coast.

The "Big Boy" is a typical example of American industrial skill and labor, sparked by the spirit of individual enterprise; the spirit that 65,000 Union Pacific employes are working and fighting to keep alive, to build a bright future for your America.
