GOOD WAGES MEAN MUCH TO FARMERS

Farmers ought to pray for the kind of situation that demands the good wages because that means that industry is thriving and the city worker has lots of food money in his pocket. Secretary of Agriculture points out. "Farmers, being in business have to keep an eye on relative costs. One cost farmers think about is the cost of labor. Now a shortsighted farmer may be pleased when he can get hired help at a very low wage. But the farsighted farmer does not like that situation at all. He knows from past experiences that low farm wages come with hard times. It means that there are not enough city jobs; that industry is not producing at any of the end of each would be an of-sapped out of me. I never want to where near capacity; and that many industrial plants have curtailed or shut down operation. It means that the farmer will not have a good market in which to sell his produce.

Largest Mineral Spring

The world's largest mineral hot spring, flowing 18,600,000 gallons every 24 hours at a temperature of 135 degrees Fahrenheit, is in Wyoming's Hot Springs state park at Thermopolis.

Treat Wool Carefully

Wool can't stand sharp temperature changes. A plunge into hot water shrinks the fibers, mats them. Drying in cold blasts of air or by a hot stove shrinks and hardens the fabric.

Here's YOUR Idaho

PHOTOGRAPH BY W. FAYTON MONCURE

The rugged contour and vast forests of Idaho make it a natural habitat of big game. In variety and distribution it is excelled by few states. From Canada on the north to Utah and Nevada on the south, Idaho offers the hunter unmatched opportunities, for less than 1% of the state's area is closed to hunting the year around! Deer, especially, are plentiful. North of the Salmon River the most abundant species is the white-tail while in southern counties the mule deer is common. Each autumn Idaho's far-famed Primitive Area, in the central part of the state (where the above photo was taken), is the gathering place of hunting parties hailing from all parts of the country. Although found in many other sections of the state, elk, mountain goat, bear and antelope abound in this area particularly. For trips to these hunting grounds packers and guides can be hired. Or airplane service is available. Dude ranches offer accommodations. To thousands of big game hunters Idaho is a virtual "sportsman's paradise!"

No. 9 of a series featuring Idaho's great outdoors and unmatched recreational resources. Spend YOUR vacation enjoying these natural facilities and invite your out-of-state friends to make scenic Idaho a "first" among their vacation plans.
